Preface This brochure is the result of a combined effort between The European Forum for Responsible Drinking (EFRD) and the European Spirits Organisation (CEPS).

- + EFRD is an alliance of leading European alcoholic beverages producers supporting targeted initiatives to promote responsible drinking. These initiatives focus on attitudinal and awareness programmes, responsible marketing and self-regulation as well as the promotion of a better understanding of the evidence base. EFRD promotes the Partnership approach with interested stakeholders to tackle alcohol related harm. EFRD members include: Bacardi-Martini, Brown-Forman, Diageo, Moët-Hennessy, Pernod-Ricard, Rémy-Cointreau and V&S Group.
- + The European Spirits Organisation (CEPS) acts as the European representative body for producers of spirit drinks. Its membership comprises 37 national associations representing the industry in 28 European countries, as well as a group of leading spirits producing companies. The European Spirits Organisation (CEPS) aims to raise and promote the understanding of the EU spirits industry to decision makers in the EU institutions, international organisations and other key stakeholders. Its role is to secure, promote and advance the freedom to produce and market spirits in a responsible way, to support the needs of its members and to be the leading voice of the European spirits industry.

Introduction

Treated responsibly, alcohol is a source of enjoyment for many people. However, excessive or inappropriate consumption can cause health and social problems for individuals and for wider society.

This is why the spirits industry is committed to addressing alcohol-related harm. This commitment has been reinforced by the adoption in 2005 of the European Spirits Organisation “Charter on Responsible Alcohol Consumption”.

The most effective harm reduction strategies are those that bring about sustainable change towards a reduction in risky drinking behaviour. Such strategies are likely to comprise a combination of effective enforcement of legislation, a focus on attitudes and behaviour and modifications to the drinking environment. For the spirits industry, this means driving positive change in attitude and drinking behaviour among consumers by promoting responsible drinking, reinforcing positive drinking behaviours and discouraging risky drinking. This brochure is a non-exhaustive overview of existing prevention programmes undertaken in public/private partnership to meet this objective.

To understand the full extent of the commitments of the spirits producing companies, it is important to know that these companies do not simply invest in activities individually, but that they also support the actions undertaken by the trade associations in the EU-25 and by the Social Aspects Organisations (SAOs) that they fund, typically in partnership with other alcohol beverage producers.

A list of the corporate members of each SAO is available for download from the relevant website. The SAOs are listed in annex to this report together with their contact details.

Practical information

This brochure is also available online on the EFRD and the CEPS websites.<sup>1</sup> The online version is presented in Excel, which enables users to select the data according to individual requirements.

The recommended actions and industry initiatives are divided into a number of areas that are summarised and presented in the table as follows:

- + Initiatives targeting underage drinking that seek to discourage underage drinking and enforce legal purchasing age, in particular awareness campaigns on legal purchasing age and sanctions for infringements. These initiatives also include education programmes at school, support for parents, campaigns at youth clubs, sports clubs, and special actions during nightlife, etc.
- + Initiatives targeting consumers to promote responsible drinking. In particular, information campaigns and initiatives to raise consumer awareness on sensible drinking levels (including campaigns targeting specific at-risk groups, such as pregnant women).
- + Initiatives to raise awareness on dangers of drink-driving: for example, designated driver campaigns or any other actions promoting alternatives to drink-driving.
- + Initiatives to promote responsible service/selling of alcohol for example, training of bar staff and cashiers to serve/sell alcohol responsibly.
- + Initiatives to raise awareness in the workplace: for example, adoption of a specific alcohol policy, initiatives to inform employees or to support those having alcohol-related problems.

As a responsible industry, we are proud of our contribution to being part of the solution to the problem of alcohol misuse.

Finland

In Finland, all products with added alcohol above 2.8% vol. are distributed through a retail monopoly, with the exception of fermented products below 4.7% vol. which can be sold by retail outlets. The retail monopoly company - Alko Inc - is regulated by law and the Decree 243/2000, Article 1 stipulates that alcoholic beverages have to be sold in a way that "prevents harm related to alcohol consumption". Alko Inc is therefore the body in charge of prevention activities for the products they sell.

Following the adoption of the Finnish Alcohol Action Plan 2004-2007, the National Product Control Agency for Welfare and Health has established on 7 September 2005 a discussion forum for stakeholders. The aim of the forum is to discuss product control, advertising and how the system of permission and monitoring is working. This specific situation explains why there is no action reported in this brochure for Finland.
